

Climate

Japan is an island nation located in the northern hemisphere, off the eastern edge of the continent of Eurasia. The Japanese archipelago is comprised of the islands of Hokkaido, Honshu, Shikoku, Kyushu and Okinawa, along with more than 6,800 additional islands, large and small. Although the area of the Japanese archipelago is not large, because it is elongated in a north-south direction it encompasses sub-fringed temperature, and subtropical climate zones.

Climate in Kitakyushu (located in the north of Kyushu) varies depending upon seasons and that may be said for most part of Japan. Consequently, you need completely different types of clothing depending on the season you are in Japan.

Spring is mid-March through mid-June when climate is moderate with temperature of 10 to 20 degrees Celsius.

Before the onset of summer, a unique approximately 40-day-long RAINY SEASON is experienced in Japan excluding Hokkaido. This rainy season usually starts from middle of June and ends around the third week of July.

Summer runs through mid-July to mid-September when the temperature reaches as high as over 30 degree Celsius and humidity is quite high. Air-conditioning is set at 28 degrees Celsius to reduce carbon dioxide emission. You may wish to wear light clothes in and out of the buildings.

Autumn is mid-September through mid-November and temperature is similar to that of spring.

Winter begins in November and continues until mid-March. During the wintertime, the weather is usually cloudy and temperature sometimes goes down below zero degrees Celsius and wind-chill temperature is even lower than that. Snow is observed several times in one winter. Since air-conditioning, this time, is set at 20 degrees Celsius, you would wish to prepare warm clothes even inside of the buildings.

Communications

TELEPHONE: Each room has a telephone which you can communicate inside JICA Kyushu. While incoming calls may be received, you cannot make telephone calls outside JICA Kyushu. External calls both domestic and international may be made from the public telephones in the lobby.

MOBILE PHONE (Cell-phone): Please note due to different technologies unique to Japan are used for Japanese mobile phone system from your own countries, including GSM phones with SIM cards, mobile phones which you currently use are likely not to work in Japan.

Instead, short time visitors to Japan can rent mobile phones from several companies which have a service counter at several international airports like Narita International Airport (Tokyo) and Kansai International Airport (Osaka).

Normally, mobile phones in Japan are sold in one piece of telephone set in combination with a monthly and yearly (normally two years) contract and only available to residents of Japan. It means that you only can buy a mobile phone set (hardware) of specific companies like “DoCoMo”, “Vodafone” or “au” but you cannot buy a SIM card like card to set your own mobile phone.

In addition, foreign residents are requested to present their alien registration cards, which are issued for a persons who will stay in Japan for 90 days or longer by local government offices and immigration offices, and their bank accounts in Japan, which also are needed to present their alien registration cards to open them.

Information regarding the rental mobile phone would be available in the following Inter-Net site.

Money Matters

As it is said in the KENSHU-IN GUIDEBOOK, JICA will provide participants with allowance. Allowance is expected to suffice the costs of your lunch and other expenses that make your stay comfortable and fruitful.

The currency in Japan is Japanese Yen and NO other currencies, including US dollars are accepted in Japan. Credit cards are accepted in shops and restaurants, but not every place. You may exchange currency at the airport of your disembarkation or some banks. It is advisable to exchange you currency at the airport when you arrive for the amount needed for the first few days in Japan. Usually, allowance is made available to you on the second day of your arrival during the briefing session.

JICA will assign a bank account to which the allowance is deposited. The participants may withdraw money by using Automatic Teller Machine (ATM) which is located at JICA Kyushu and the branch of the particular bank. This account shall only be used for transaction of JICA allowance and participants may not deposit, receive remittance other than from JICA or wire transfer any funds. It means that you will not be able to receive any type of money transfer to your JICA bank account from your country or any other places.

Consumer price in Japan is quite high; a can of soda and train ride for one station costs approximately one US dollar. For details, please refer to your KENSHU-IN GUIDEBOOK.

Neighborhood

JICA Kyushu is located in the town called Yahata, being 10 kilometers west of the city center of Kitakyushu city, Kokura. JICA Kyushu's immediate neighborhood is international and academic, with Kitakyushu International Exchange Village Center and a Kyushu International University. There are supermarkets, convenience stores, markets, discount stores, rental video shop, clinics and hospitals etc. If you walk about 10 minutes to the train station, you can easily reach neighboring towns by trains where you find sightseeing spots, department stores, electronic stores and more variety of restaurants. There is also an amusement park named "Space World" at around five minutes train ride. Kitakyushu information may be found in following web sites;

<http://www.city.kitakyushu.jp/~english/index.html>

<http://www.kcta.or.jp/english/index.html>.

If you wish to stretch and visit other cities and/or towns, Fukuoka city, the biggest commercial city in Kyushu, is about one hour train ride distance where you will find even more urbanized community. You may find whereabouts of Fukuoka city through the websites:

<http://www.city.fukuoka.jp/index-e.html>

<http://www.yokanavi.com/eg/index.html>.

Front desk and your training coordinator will also help you to move around the neighborhood upon your arrival. In some courses, Japanese language lessons are included in your program and you will learn useful conversation to get around.

Rooms

JICA Kyushu's accommodation building rises 6 stories and has 136 single rooms, 2 barrier free rooms and 5 twin rooms. All of them are furnished with bed, desk, chair, TV, video, radio, room lamps, safety box and bathroom facilities. They also have telephone set which enable you to call inside KIC and receive all incoming calls including international calls. Towels and toiletries are not available and therefore you are strongly advised to bring your own towels and toiletries along with you. If you have your own computer and LAN connector, you can connect to internet from your room. (LAN cables are available at the front desk.)

Japan uses 100V AC and for plug shape and size, please refer to your KENSHU-IN GUIDEBOOK.

Accommodation building is also equipped with laundry room on each floor. Use of washing machine and dryer is free and irons are available in the front desk when needed.

Although cooking facility is not available and cooking in the room is strictly prohibited, hot and cold potable water is always available on each accommodation floor for your convenience.

Useful Items during your stay

OUTFIT: It is recommended to bring suitable clothing to the season, especially ensure to have warm enough clothes if your course runs through the winter (November through March). Dress code is casual for the most of the training course, however there are a few occasions when formal clothing is requested. You may also wish to bring your national dress for cultural exchange activities that you are likely to join. Any other items that may be used to exhibit your culture are welcomed. If your course involves in plant visit or industrial practices, suitable uniform will be provided by JICA upon arrival.

DAYLY LIFE: For participants whose course includes overnight trips during the training course, a medium size travel bag becomes useful. Even though JICA Kyushu Library has selection of books for technical reference and entertainment, they are usually in English. Therefore, bring some books if wish to read in your own language. For those who are taking medication, ensure to bring your medicine. Although all JICA participants are eligible for medical service through the JICA insurance policy, preexistent illness will NOT be covered by said insurance. In addition, over-the-counter medication is limited and much of drugs require doctors' prescription.

DATA FOR YOUR ACTION PLAN: At the end of the training course, participants are usually requested to prepare and present action plan that will be implemented after returning their work places. It is likely that you wish to prepare your action plan that involves various quantitative indicators, and therefore it is recommended to bring potentially useful data and/or information that may be useful for your realistic and substantive action plan.
