There are still a large number of land mines and UXOs buried in the soils of Cambodia. They threaten not just farmers' livelihoods but also the very safety of their lives. In Battambang Province, which is known for its great agriculture potential, JICA volunteer Mr. TSUNABUCHI Masaki works to ensure good maintenance of demining equipment, many of which have been donated through the Japanese Grant Aid to the Cambodia Mine Action Centre (CMAC) Central Workshop in Battambang. With his over 40 years of experience of working for a heavy-equipment manufacturing company in Japan, Mr. TSUNABUCHI is highly trusted by the CMAC staff, and his advice and training help ensure safe and effective demining in the province.
