	Prof. Mari Iizuka (Ms.)	Research Subject : Global Strategies, Business and Society, Leadership, Japanese Corporations Special message for future students: As a former World Bank officer, I am happy to assist development of Pacific Island countries through you to become a globally minded leader. I am happy to connect you to Japanese business and also global business for the sustainable development of your society and the global society. Please come to Kyoto, where the traditions of Japan are still alive.
	Prof. Philip Sugai (Mr.)	Research Subject : Marketing Special message for future students: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Over the last decade, I have worked with outstanding students from across the Pacific Islands who have studied here in Japan for their MBA. I will help students under my supervision to connect with many others who have studied in Japan and are now in senior roles back in their home countries. This will help add rigor and practical insights into student research projects. • I have conducted a number of research projects, and written one book on Mobile Consumer Behavior, or more specifically how Mobile and wireless technologies influence My current work is focused on Value and Value Creation, which emphasizes business success in collaboration with customers, employees, partners, society and nature. • One of my current research focuses is on new and innovative ways to create and market Sustainable, environmentally friendly products and services. Students who study with me will be able to learn current best practices in Japan and globally, and bring these insights back to their own marketing and Business efforts after they graduate from the Doshisha Business school.
	Prof. Yong Yin (Mr.)	Research Subject : Operations Management, Sustainable Operations, Flexible and Agile Organization, Manufacturing Strategy Special message for future students: Japan is No.1 in the world at the area of Operations Management, we can provide you the best MBA education.

		Management Professional development
	Assoc. Prof. Manish Sharma (Mr.)	Research Subject : Economics, Emerging Markets, Sustainable Development, Finance, and Investments Special message for future students: One characteristic of the GMBA program is the emphasis on hands-on applied learning. Faculty at DBS includes long time business practitioners, who bring to the classroom an understanding of subtle business nuances, often overlooked by the textbooks. Guest lectures and seminars by top business executives also provide an intense learning and networking opportunity, right in the heart of scenic Kyoto.
	Assoc. Prof. Adam Johns (Mr.)	Research Subject : International Business Strategy, International Marketing, Cultural and Creative Industries, Business and Public Policy Special message for future students: Kyoto is an incredible place to learn, reflect, and connect with a truly diverse cohort of colleagues from all around the world.
	Assoc. Prof. Shigeru Matsumoto (Mr.)	Research Subject : Business analysis, Mergers & Acquisitions, Corporate Finance and Valuation, Project Finance Special message for future students: Happy to have and assist government officials and company management who are interested in (1) financing infrastructure projects, (2) Renewable energy and (3) business development with Japanese companies. We have about 80 foreign students in our Global MBA program here and students enjoy living in Kyoto, ideal place to stay and learn Japanese modern and traditional culture.
11. Features of University	Doshisha University is widely recognized as one of Japan's top comprehensive universities, with 15 Faculties and Centers and 15 Graduate Schools. Founded in 1875, it has a distinguished history of education based on the founder's philosophy of "education guided by conscience." Doshisha is one of the "top four" prestigious private universities in the Kansai (Osaka, Kobe, Kyoto) region, and is one of 13 universities selected by the Japanese Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology for the "Global 30" Project for Establishing Core Universities for Internationalization. Doshisha Business School's English-language Global MBA is a flagship program for the university's "Global 30" participation.
12. Features of Graduate School	Doshisha Business School (DBS) opened in 2004, following a long tradition of successful Kyoto-based global corporations such as Omron, Kyocera, Shimadzu, and Nintendo. Our English-language Global MBA was inaugurated alongside the school's Japanese MBA in 2009, and following five successful years was strengthened as an independent Global MBA (Global Business and Management Studies) program in 2014 with a bolstered dedicated faculty and expanded course offerings. Sharing the vision of our university's founder, we strongly believe that companies and businesspeople must strive not only for financial success, but also to make a positive social contribution to the world in which we live.

16. Message to Prospective International Students
Message from University	The Doshisha Global MBA guides students to explore and enquire beyond the established boundaries set by established theories and practices of global business and management to look beyond 'business as usual'. Our aim is to prepare future business leaders who are willing and able to respond effectively to the emerging needs of the increasingly diverse groups of people participating in the global economy. Doshisha Business School's Global Business and Management Studies offers a unique experience to students and professors willing to work in partnership when exploring - and challenging - traditions and trends in global business and management. A striking feature of the Doshisha Global MBA is the diversity of the people who make our MBA experience special. The students we work with come from a wide variety of backgrounds and during their studies can collaborate with colleagues from over 30 different countries. We welcome applications from aspiring and inspiring individuals regardless of gender, ethnicity, religion, or nationality.
