TICAD PROCESS

TOKYO INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT

In the early 1990s, developed countries' interest in providing assistance to Africa began to wane. Under such circumstances, it was Japan that argued for the importance of Africa, and TICAD was the proof of Japan taking action.

The first TICAD was organized in 1993 by Japan with the cooperation of the United Nations and Global Coalition for Africa, and attracted participants from 48 African countries, including five heads of state. The Tokyo Declaration on African Development, adopted at TICAD I, put aid and development in Africa back on the international agenda.

Since then, over the course of more than 20 years, TICAD has a track record of improving social and economic conditions in Africa by mobilizing public and private resources, including but not limited to Japanese technical assistance, grant aids and concessional loans.

From 2016 onwards, the TICAD will be held every three years, hosted alternately in Africa and Japan. TICAD 9 will be held in Yokohama, Japan, in 2025.
