Cited References

Japanese Resources

English Resources

About the Author

Shoko Yamada is associate professor of the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies, Japan. She obtained her Ph.D. in education and African studies from Indiana University, USA. Her Master's degree is in international development from Cornell University. The areas of interest are educational policy and social formation of values on education—especially at secondary level—in Africa.

Noriko Matsuda is chief for education aid policy in International Cooperation Bureau of Ministry of Foreign Affairs. After she obtained M.Ed from the University of Manchester, she has held positions as JICA Junior Expert on Education and JICA Education Policy Advisor for the Ministry of Education in Ghana. The area of interest is educational policy in developing countries in general.