

SUSFORM-NOW (LDC) News No 6: Kicking-off of village workshops

How do your livelihood development activities contribute to forest management? (Village Workshop December 16, 2011 (Sai Luong village))

Sunflower that could be used for protecting soil erosion

Through producing bamboo shoot, fruit, etc. increase trees in your life

More than 40 villagers participated in the workshop

Ms.Duyen, DPMU(Dien Bien District) and Mr.Thai, PPMU mainly facilitated the workshop

SUSFORM-NOW (Project for Sustainable Forest Management in the Northwest Watershed Area) kicked off the series of villages workshop at each 9 pilot site to discuss the following main points:

Point 1: Selecting the activities to be done in 2012 for forest management and livelihood development

Point 2: Identifying the members of interest group for each activity and their responsibilities

Point 3: Discussing brief implementation plan of the selected activities in 2012 (When, Who and What to do?)

The series of village workshop is continued by beginning of January 2012 to concretize the implementation plan to make it into practice sooner as possible.
