

UN VOLUNTEER DESCRIPTION OF ASSIGNMENT

Preamble:

The United Nations Volunteers (UNV) programme is the UN organization that promotes volunteerism to support peace and development worldwide. Volunteerism can transform the pace and nature of development and it benefits both society at large and the individual volunteer. UNV contributes to peace and development by advocating for volunteerism globally, encouraging partners to integrate volunteerism into development programming, and mobilizing volunteers.

In most cultures volunteerism is deeply embedded in long-established, ancient traditions of sharing and support within the communities. In this context, UN Volunteers take part in various forms of volunteerism and play a role in development and peace together with co-workers, host agencies and local communities.

In all assignments, UN Volunteers promote volunteerism through their action and conduct. Engaging in volunteer activity can effectively and positively enrich their understanding of local and social realities, as well as create a bridge between themselves and the people in their host community. This will make the time they spend as UN Volunteers even more rewarding and productive.

UK). A total caseload of some 40,000 refugees is predicted before the end of the programme. The IOM Migration Health Department operates a Migration Health Assessment Clinic for immigrants to the US. In close co-ordination with the Ministry of Labour and Transport Management, IOM is providing technical assistance to the Government of Nepal to better manage labour migration - domestic, cross border as well as overseas. With the Ministry of Women Children and Social Welfare, IOM is working on human trafficking issues in prevention, protection and policy formulation. To complement this in partnership with Newcastle University in the UK, IOM is engaged in a multi-year large academic research project on post-trafficking livelihoods. In addition as a contribution to the peace process under a joint project with OHCHR, IOM is providing technical assistance to the Ministry of Peace and Reconstruction in formulation of a reparations policy, implementation tools and guidelines for victims of the ten year armed conflict. IOM is also the responsible agency for supporting displaced communities following natural disasters, as the cluster lead for Camp Coordination and Camp Management (CCCM) in Nepal. Today, IOM Nepal has 380 staff including 26 international staff with Head Office and Transit Center in Kathmandu and Sub Office in Damak to carry out the operational activities for the resettlement of the Bhutanese Refugees.

Nepal is a country in transition from the decade long conflict since it officially ended in 2006 with the signing of a Comprehensive Peace Accord. Rehabilitation of conflict affected communities as well as former/discharged combatants are an urgent need to ensuring the peace process is successful in Nepal. Nepal today is well recognized as the country of origin for labour migrants mainly to the Gulf countries and Malaysia. Around 900 Nepali youths leave the country everyday seeking employment abroad with a total of some three million migrants working abroad; in recent years there has been a significant rise in the numbers of movement of people. The Government of Nepal recognizes the importance of labour migration, but at the same time acknowledges the significant challenges to ensure protection to its migrants and the need to regulate the migration flow from Nepal. In addition, with the increasing mobility to and from Nepal, it has increased the incidents of human trafficking, drugs, arms and goods smuggling, irregular migration and also increase in money laundering. Of particular concern, women and children are being trafficked to India and elsewhere for purposes of forced labour and sexual exploitation.

The service of the UNV will be to engage in labour migration project focusing on reintegration support to the returnee migrants by overseeing an Agriculture Training Center. The overall goal of this training center is to break free from the forced migration cycle and remigration by creating employment opportunities in agriculture sector for the potential and returnee migrants. The UNV will be encouraged and will be given opportunities to interact with the local communities, NGOs and private sector for development and implementation of various activities.

During the tenure of their service, in addition to contributing to IOM's ongoing work in Nepal, the UNV will be exposed to various issues related to trafficking, displaced communities, border management, refugees and disaster risk management which will benefit to shape their career in the future.
